

I joined a global company in Japan after graduating

NGUYEN DUC THINH
From Vietnam

I came to Japan in October 2016 and spent my first year studying in the Japanese Studies Program (JSP) at Josai International University (JIU). This was followed by 7 years at JIU's undergraduate and graduate schools. I am currently working in the trading department of Sugatsune Kogyo Co., Ltd. a manufacturing company established over 94 years ago. The time I spent at JIU, especially in the JSP, is proving to be invaluable to me. During my time at JIU, I was able to make friends and interact with students from many different countries. Also, since the JSP is located on the university's main campus, I was able to interact with Japanese students as well. In addition, I could use the gym, library, and other facilities, participate in club activities and university events. I feel I was very fortunate to be in such an educational environment. For those of you who are considering applying to the JSP, I encourage you to explore your own potential while you are at JIU by attending Japanese classes, taking part in activities that interest you, and borrowing books from the library.

I became a teacher after studying at JIU

B. MIDEKI SHESHADRI FERNANDO
From Sri Lanka

I came to Japan after passing JLPT N5 in Sri Lanka and studied at Josai International University (JIU) in the Japanese Studies Program (JSP) for one year from April 2015. I was able to pass N3 and N2 during my time in the program. In addition to Japanese, I was able to learn many things about Japanese culture. After graduating from the JSP, I studied for four years in the JIU Department of International Exchange in the Faculty of International Humanities. At the time, I was enrolled in the All English Program as well so I took classes in both English and Japanese. As an undergraduate student, I studied second languages, communication, international exchange, and cross-cultural understanding and passed the JLPT N1. After graduating from JIU in April 2022, I started working as a foreign language teacher at an elementary school in Fujisawa City, Kanagawa Prefecture.

Studies at JIU helped me find a career path in Japan

CHEN CHOUN
From Cambodia

My name is Chen Chuon, I'm from Cambodia. After graduating from high school, I entered a Japanese language school in Cambodia and studied Japanese. In April 2024 I enrolled in the Japanese Studies Program (JSP) at Josai International University (JIU). I am very happy that I could study not only Japanese language but also Japanese culture and customs at JIU. Thanks to the Japanese teachers in the JSP I was able to enroll in the Department of Management Sciences in the Faculty of Management and Information Sciences within 18 months. I graduated from JIU in August 2019 and have been working for NIHON KIZAI Co., Ltd. in the construction industry since then. The things I learned at university have been very useful for me in my job and I aim to continue to make a valuable contribution to Japanese society. For me, studying abroad in the JSP was the first step toward higher education in Japan. For those of you who are planning to enter undergraduate or graduate schools in Japan, why don't you start your dream in JSP? I hope you enjoy your study abroad experience.

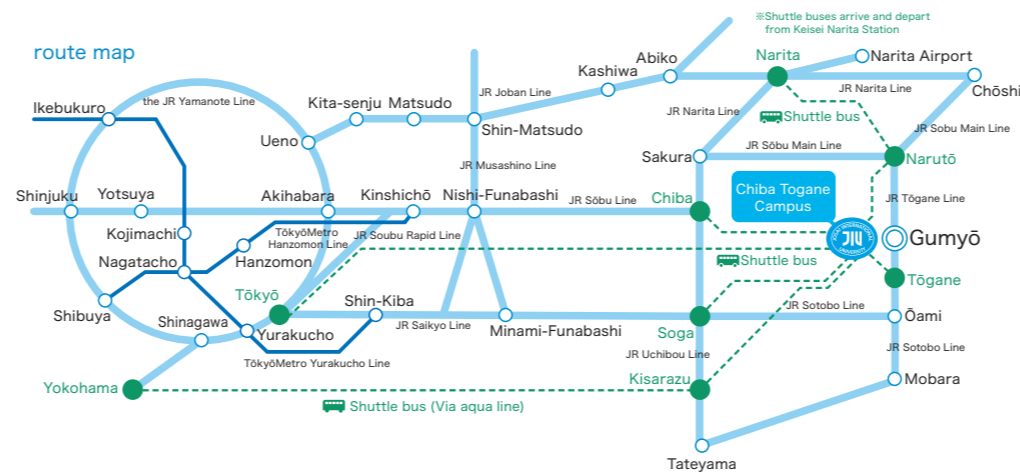

My job after graduating is with the Bank of China

From China

In 2009, I enrolled in the Japanese Studies Program at Josai International University (JIU), where I studied Japanese language and culture for one year before entering the Department of International Exchange in the Faculty of International Humanities. After four years as an undergraduate student I joined the Tokyo Branch of the Bank of China, where I am currently working in the area of fund settlement between financial institutions. I believe that studying and living in Japan, away from your home country, will be a very valuable addition to your life. There are many events to experience and opportunities for international exchange in the JIU Japanese Studies Program, so make sure to acquire good Japanese language skills and actively participate in class. I am sure you will have rewarding and different times, but I hope you will enjoy them all and spend a fulfilling life at JIU.
